Facing flood fury

In his famous book Essay on the Principle of Population, the British scholar Thomas Robert Malthus (1766-1834) articulated his views regarding human population saying, "An increase in a nation's food production improved the well-being of the populace, but the improvement was temporary because it led to population growth which in turn restored the original per capita production level." The central message of his view, referred to as Malthusian catastrophe is "The power of population is indefinitely greater than the power in the earth to produce subsistence for all in the population." Further, taking India's own case, populations had a tendency to grow until the economically deprived sections suffer hardship and want result in greater susceptibility to famine and diseases. The decades preceding the dawn of this century witnessed a virtual flood of more than 20 million human beings being added every year to the mass already hosted by the land. That number currently being estimated as about 10 million is no small mercy. The country is facing a multiplicity of flood fury, both natural and otherwise.

First of all, the flood of annual addition of 10 million or so mouths joining the mass in the land without access to even skimpy quantities of food, forget about nutrition so expertly prescribed by practicing consultants, is more talked about than addressed by all concerned. Next follow (a) Outbreak of many life-threatening diseases, dengue and chikungunya joining the set of afflictions already on the familiar list, (b) Mishaps on the road-and-railway network across the country claiming lives of people in growing astronomical proportions, (c) Fatalities in stampedes during popular festivals such as Kumbh Mela and Pushkar, (d) Fallout of unpreparedness to manage the rivers and lakes that go dry in years of monsoon failure and overflow causing devastating floods resulting in loss of life, crops and property in years of excessive rains as in the current season.

Lastly, the capabilities to both check the various natural disasters and also address related challenges are well within the grasp of administration, with the notable exception of the flood of youth largely left to fend for themselves. The task is overdue to be tackled on a war-footing, even as this flood doesn't recede unlike the furious floods of rivers and lakes.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

For all their lovability birds can be quite a nuisance. Give them an inch, I've found and they'll take over a yard quite literally — and mess it up. A case in point is our open garage that has become the hangout of a pair of migratory wagtails. Tails constantly flipping up and down, they perch on our car and liberally befoul its spotless white exterior with their droppings. I dutifully clean up whenever I take the car out, only to find that the defilers are back when I'm not around, their excretory systems working overtime! Or the wagtails keep pecking noisily at the bedroom windowpanes during my precious post-lunch siesta. The resultant rat-a-tat is not exactly a lullaby. Spying, I found them jabbing at their own reflections in the glass, looking far more nettled than I was. Bird-brained, they certainly are! As a boy, I recall that a gaggle of sparrows had a free run of our church in Munnar. Squeaking shrilly, they would streak over the congregation during Mass, strafing the unlucky ones among us with their droppings. To escape being 'bombed,' we kids used to avoid sitting under the fans where the pests perched. Yet we seldom emerged from church without little blotches of 'abstract art' adorning our clothes.

Friday 'the 13th is unlucky day!

Raleigh: That's the term Psychologists give the small number people who are afraid of Friday the 13th. It's named after Frigga, the Norse goddess for whom "Friday" is named, and triskaidekaphobia, meaning fear of the number thirteen.

If being labeled with that term scares you, you can say you suffer from "paraskevidekatriaphobia." Earning to pronounce either term is the first step to recovery. A 2011 study by the Stress Management Center and Phobia Institute in Asheville, North Carolina, suggests an estimated 17 to 21 million people in the United States are affected by a fear of this day. According to Dr. Donald Dossey, the fear of one calendar quirk can have a serious impact on the economy. "It's been estimated that $800 or $900 million is lost in business on this day because people will not fly or do business they would normally do," Dossey said. Why fear about a simple number like 13? If you do suffer from friggatriskaidekaphobia, or at least the fear of mispronouncing it, take heart: This is the last Friday the 13th of 2017 and the next one doesn't happen again until next April.

Macabre living with the dead!

Minnesota: A man who lived with the decaying bodies of his dead mother and twin brother for more than a year said he didn't report their deaths because he was traumatised. Robert James Kuefler, 60, was charged last week by Police in White Bear, Minnesota, with interference with a dead body or scene of death, a misdemeanour's. The macabre living situation crime came to light in September 2016, when neighbours asked Police to check on Kuefler's residence. Responding officers said the house had the stench of decay. They found the skeletal remains of Kuefler's mother Evelyn in an upstairs bedroom, and the mummified corpse of his twin brother Richard in the basement. Autopsies on the bodies showed both died of natural causes; Richard in July 2015, and his mother a month later. Police initially accused Kuefler of financial exploitation of a vulnerable adult, but apparently lacked evidence to support the charge and dropped it. Police Capt. Dale Hager said authorities decided to file a misdemeanour charge against Kuefler so he'll have access psychological help through the court system.

Can I get my resveratrol from drinking wine?

It's true, red wine does contain resveratrol. But there's one catch... you would need to drink several bottles a day to get the benefits of resveratrol. You don't want to become an alcoholic in order to get enough resveratrol. Better to get your resveratrol in capsule form.

Imprudent road widening investment; lay scientific speed-breakers instead

Sir,

I agree with the observations made by Major General S.G. Vombatkere (Retd.) in SOM dated Oct. 12 regarding widening (straightening) of Hunsur Road near Jaladarshini Guest House. Before further public uproar can begin, authorities concerned must consider all the pros and cons of such huge unnecessary investment in the name of avoiding accidents on a mere stretch of 500 meters. There are enough warning boards, signs and umpteen number of reflective paint red metal plates nailed to almost every tree on that stretch (see photo).

With all these precautionary signs, if accidents take place, it is the motorists who are to be blamed for their irrational attitude, behaviour, contempt/negligence about lane discipline and craze for speeding. Huge moneys are being spent in the name of providing smooth rides to the motorists who travel on tyres, whereas, most pedestrian walkways are unworthy as it were, to be called footpaths.

I suggest that authorities may in the first instance, lay scientific speed-breakers in both directions at the identified accident spots/curve that is proposed to be straightened, to ensure that speeding motorists will adhere to speed limits.

People do not know at whose behest this imprudent work is proposed to be undertaken by spending Rs.12 crore for a mere stretch of 500 meters. People are entitled to know the details of the plan of action, road drawings, benefits etc., in a transparent and accountable manner.

Journalist among two killed as car rams into tree

T. Narasipur, Oct. 16 (SK&KS)- In a tragic incident, a journalist was among two persons who were killed on the spot and four others injured, after the person behind the wheels lost control of the car resulting in the car toppling and ramming into the tree near Talkad yesterday.

The deceased have been identified as M.G. Rajesh (40), son of Girimallaiah, a resident of Srirampura, who was working as a Senior Sub-Editor of Vijayavani Mysuru Edition and his sister-in-law Mahima (37), wife of Manjuswamy.

Those injured have been identified as 38-year-old Bhagyalakshmi, 10-year-old Bhoomika, 18-year-old Harshavardhan and 12-year-old Jaganmaya. All the injured who suffered minor injuries were treated at a hospital nearby.

It is learnt that Rajesh along with others, after attending a naming ceremony at Mudukuthore, was returning in a Chevrolet car (KA-09 MC-3353).

After refuelling at Talkad, the elders wanted to show Talkad to the children and the person behind the wheels instead of going towards Mudukuthore took a turn to Kukkuru Medani Road and lost control of the car near Arundatinagar resulting in the car toppling and coming to a standstill after ramming into a tree.

Rajesh and Mahima, who were severely injured, died on the spot, while the others escaped miraculously with minor injuries.

Talkad SI Ramesh and staff, who rushed to the spot, conducted mahazar and shifted the deceased to T. Narasipur General Hospital where post-mortem was conducted this morning and the bodies were handed over to the family members.

Boulder rolls down Ch.Hill; tragedy averted

Mysuru, Oct.16 (SPN)- A huge boulder rolled down the Chamundi Hill near the K.R. Mill Guest House, following heavy rains, here yesterday. Luckily, since no vehicle was passing by, a major tragedy was averted.

The boulder came loose around 2.30 pm and tumbled down on to the road. Since the vehicular movement was slow at that time the damage to lives, limbs and vehicles was completely avoided.

One of the main reasons for the minor landslide is because of the heavy rains pounding the city. As the boulder was not at a great height, it just slipped and landed on the road, said a Policeman to Star of Mysore.

On receiving the information, the K.R. Police personnel and other officials reached the spot and cleared the boulder by evening facilitating the free movement of vehicles.

Bike set on fire

Mysuru, Oct. 16 (KS)- An incident of miscreants setting a bike on fire has been reported from Mandi Police limits here last night.

The bike belongs to Jagadeesh, a resident of Soppina Keri in Mandi Mohalla.

It is reported that there was an argument between Jagadeesh and one Ravi over a petty issue and after a few minutes, miscreants have allegedly set fire to the bike and fled from the spot.

Mandi Inspector Lakshmikanth Talawar, speaking to Star of Mysore, said that a complaint in this regard has been registered this morning and investigation has been taken up.

Two houses burgled: Valuables worth lakhs of rupees stolen

Mysuru, Oct.16 (SBD&KS)- In separate cases, burglars who broke into two houses, have decamped with gold ornaments and other valuables worth lakhs of rupees in city yesterday.

In the first case, burglars who broke into a house of Dr. Chunchaiah in Vijayanagar 4th Stage on Saturday, by forcibly entering through the rear door, have decamped with Rs. 3,500 cash, 138 grams gold ornaments, watch and imitation jewellery worth about Rs. 3.5 lakh kept in the almirah and cupboard of the house. Dr. Chunchaiah, at about 1 pm had locked the house and had gone outside. When he returned at about 6 pm, he found the house burgled and immediately lodged a complaint at Vijayanagar Police Station.

Vijayanagar Police, who have registered a case, are investigating.

In the second case, burglars who entered the house of one Khadeer Pasha at Siddique Nagar 3rd Cross here by breaking open the front door, have decamped with Rs. 1.20 lakh cash, 344 grams gold ornaments, watch and imitation jewellery kept in the almirah at the house.

Pasha, at about 11.30 am on Saturday had locked his house and had been to his mother's house in Bannimantap here. The incident came to light when Pasha's brother went to the house in the evening. Pasha later lodged a complaint at N.R. Police Station in this regard.

Road straightening work delayed

Mysuru, Oct. 16 (RK&NNN)- The road straightening work near Jaladarshani Guest House, opposite Kalamandira on Hunsur Road, which was to begin today has been postponed.

The National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) Executive Engineer T.R. Shivaram told Star of Mysore, here yesterday that since the District in-Charge Minister Dr. H.C. Mahadevappa, MP Pratap Simha and other people's representatives could not give their time for the foundation stone laying ceremony, the work on the Rs. 12 crore worth project has been postponed.

Only on the confirmation of their availability, the date for commencement of the work would be confirmed, he added.

It may be recalled that Shivaram had told Star of Mysore two days ago that the work would begin from Oct. 16.

PROTEST AGAINST ROAD WORKS

Meanwhile, Mysore Grahakara Parishat (MGP) and Kukkarahalli Ulisi Horata Samithi will jointly hold a silent protest at Kalamandira at 4 pm today against the proposed road straightening works.

A large number of general public are also expected to take part in the protest.

The organisers believe that works would adversely affect the flora and fauna of the Kukkarahalli Lake apart from uprooting the existing trees.

DRAMA REVIEW

Chitthala's novel Shikari on stage

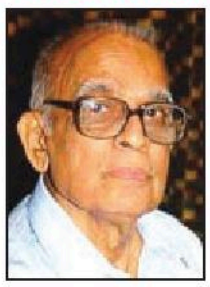
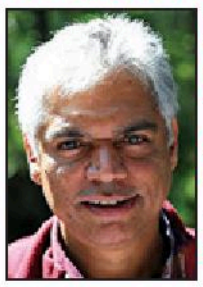
A resounding success

Celebrated Novelist Yashwant Chitthala's play 'Shikari' was staged as part of Rangayana's weekend show at Bhoomigeeta last evening. The mid 1970s play, adapted and directed by Prakash Belawadi, is being staged at Rangayana since Aug.20. The next show will be on Oct. 22 (Sunday) at 6.30 pm.



Chitthala



Belawadi

In a short interaction, at Jaganmohan Palace in October 1994, Yashwant Vithoba Chittal (Chitthala), the eminent Kannada novelist told me that Nagappa's character in Shikari in several ways is expected to demonstrate the meaninglessness of life, beyond the meaning one is willing to ascribe to it. Unlike Camus, for Chitthala it is that meaninglessness that constitutes the absurd which gets integrated into the worldview the novel ultimately provides. Besides, on first impression, Chitthala provides certain parallels with Kafka, in the suggestion that baffling complexities lurk behind a visibly spare narrative style and a general detachment that surrounds it.

The Rangayana Mysore repertory has senior actors who have been exposed to the best theatre in India and the West including off of Broadway (New York) have had the honour of presenting the finest fictional classics in Kannada with varying themes like Devanooru Mahadeva's Kusumabale, U.R. Ananthamurthy's Samskara, Ravindranath Tagore's Gora, Shivarama Karanth's Sarasammana Samadhi, Poornachandra Tejasvi's Krishnegowdana Aane, and even Kuvempu's Malegalalli Madumagalu.

Prakash Belawadi's intervention in Rangayana has taken the institution to another milestone by bringing Chitthala's Shikari on stage. The stage version written by Prakash Belawadi himself, provided the base for the August 20th production directed by Belawadi at Bhoomigeeta, Rangayana, Mysuru. The director and his team deserves a bouquet with several flowers of achievement in stage management, expertise of K.J. Pawan in providing lilting melodies to capture the times, the imaginative genius of Sankeerthi in costumes and the masterly work of Mahesh Kallatti in lighting.

Written in the 70s, the novel has lent itself to Prakash Belawadi's capacity to tell a story in the language of theatre. In an astonishing manner with mind blowing theatrical effects and quaintly familiar music, Belawadi creates a world where man is demonised by vanities and the worship of money. As the director himself says, "the hunt is about a hunting party comprising friends, associates, social peers of caste and literary persuasion." In his greed, man tortures the lives of others and grovels in joy. Chitthala brilliantly portrays the Bombay city of the 70s with its dehumanised corporate world where man is caught in the vicious circle of egoism, lust and heartless pursuit of money. In the depiction of Nagappa we see aspects other than father-hatred characteristic in Kafka's works. His inspiration from Kafka and Camus is clear but the plot reveals Chitthala's delightful originality. Perhaps Chitthala is Nagappa who recalls his childhood and later his struggles in Hyderabad and Mumbai and career as a chemist. But all through the lyrical narrative one feels the lurking presence of Chitthala's love for creating a sanctuary of love and loneliness even in the streets of Bollywood.

The production which has texts from Chitthala's work which run into long orations effectively develops the character of Nagappa. The stage setting brilliantly designed by Rangayana's eminent designer H.K. Dwarakanath, which reminded me of a few broadway productions showed how local theatrical genius was able to transform it into Chawls of Bombay. The routine and the drudgery of life in tiny houses created on the stage revealed a stroke of genius. If Nagappa (masterfully portrayed by Hulugappa Kattimani) is on the stage from the beginning to the end, we must remember he is the protagonist revealing the novelist's worldview in the existential settings of Bombay. Chitthala's Nagappa is the Indian Sisyphus in Bombay pushing the boulder up the hill in vain. His end like all absurd anti-heroes, is in suicide. In a serious play like this, the repertory achieves another milestone in adding one more novelist to its list of successful productions. Nagappa reminded me of Ionesco's The Lesson.

The two major issues of the fire accident which is used as a pretext to scapegoat Nagappa, by the corporate bosses and Srinivasa's private life becoming a subject of Nagappa's new story are integrated effortlessly. The director has deployed elements of a suspense thriller, the intrigues of the corporate world, honey traps, and journalism without a conscience, effectively. The audience enjoyed Srinivasa's car driving and Nagappa's flights with compromising air hostesses.

Gone are the days of Dr. Johnson who said "the drama's rules, the drama's audience give" but Belawadi has handled the plot and the dialogue in an exceptionally effective manner. He has effectively utilised Chitthala's genius for drudging up almost as if in a mythical form the fears that afflict Bombay-wallahs. We can recognise them when Belawadi brings them up to the light of day with his astonishing stage directions. I was extremely impressed by almost meticulously detailed accounts of happenings within the three dimensions and the time element of everyday reality in a Bombay chawl. Belawadi makes room for providing the mind's eye for us to see what is represented as occurring without any problem. The dialogue has followed all formal rules of syntax. The Kafkaesque narrator movingly portrayed by K.R. Nandini, is a strategy morally inescapable in bringing great fiction to the theatre. In short, the play effectively portrayed our world as a system incomplete in itself, traversed by fissures through which we glimpse something that for a moment seems to hold out the promise of a great justification of all things and ourselves. Chitthala reveals how that such a vision disappears and we retreat to the patchwork of immanence of mundane reality. Chitthala mocks at the claims of the mystics of religion. Belawadi succeeds in presenting the predicament of man in our urban society but one cannot ignore how in the ultimate analysis Chitthala finds essential meaninglessness as in Camus' concept of the absurd.

It was an evening with a mature audience that Rangayana has created over the years, that I spent joyfully and thoughtfully when the words and scenes on the stage took me back and forth from the present to the past, strongly bringing back the memories of Samuel Beckett, Ionesco, Pinter and Kafka. I must frankly admit that the production was for the 'highbrow' audience and not for theatre goers who want thrilling entertainment and double entendre and even vicarious verbal sex on the stage. Full marks to Belawadi and each one in his troupe for taking the avowed agenda of Rangayana forward and creating a new milestone in Kannada theatre.

Gone Away: To Germany & Austria — 4

A day out looking for Hitler's Ghost!

Our guide Tom, as I mentioned, was a chatter-box, saying, what he thought, was funny or a joke. However, he was smart enough to have not only his say but also his way. We wanted to see Berlin Olympic Stadium, the German Parliament Building and, of course, Hitler's residence and the bunker not knowing these two have been razed to the ground by the Russians a few years after 1945.

We had already visited the iconic Brandenburg Gate crowned with the beautiful Quadriga (a chariot drawn by four horses) on top the previous evening on a sort of recce. Therefore, it suited Tom to drive past the monument and we did not mind. However, Tom did not forget to give its history.

Quadriga atop the gate portrayed the 'triumph of peace.' Peace, however, was stolen away after 12 years of its installation by Napoleon Bonaparte when he invaded Berlin. The victorious Napoleon was so pleased with the beautiful Quadriga he carried it as a war trophy to Paris in 1806. However, this symbol of 'triumph of peace' returned to its legitimate owners in 1814 after Napoleon's defeat in his expansionist Napoleonic wars.

As we know, Germany became a Republic after World War I. Proclamation of the Republic was to be made at this Gate, but it was not possible as it was damaged in the war. So the Proclamation was made in the nearby Reichstag building (Parliament building). It was built in 1894 a few years before World War I. During the war, in order to enthuse the German people to unitedly fight the war, the dedication "Dem Deutschen Volke" (to the German people) was written in Gothic letters in front above the entrance.

Apparently, this did not work. The Germans lost the World War I and its dome was knocked off in the war and damaged. It was restored with a giant glass dome which is unique and spectacular. Tourists are allowed to climb up to the dome, but need to wait a day, sometimes, to get the required pass or ticket — such rush. One could see people circumambulating up the dome from below or from a distance like ants on the move in a line. (see pic.1)

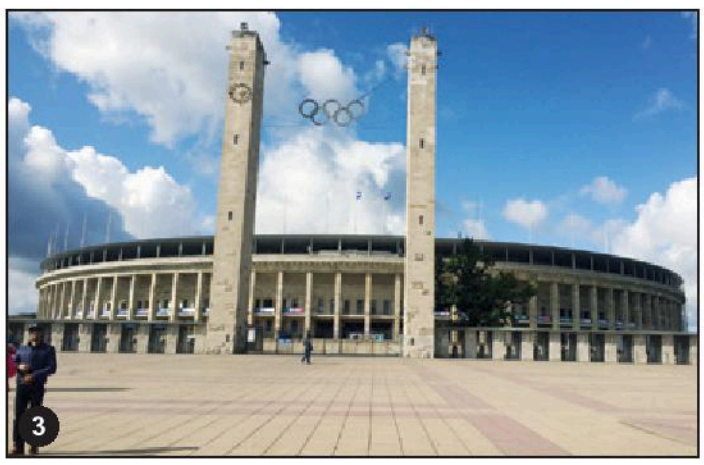
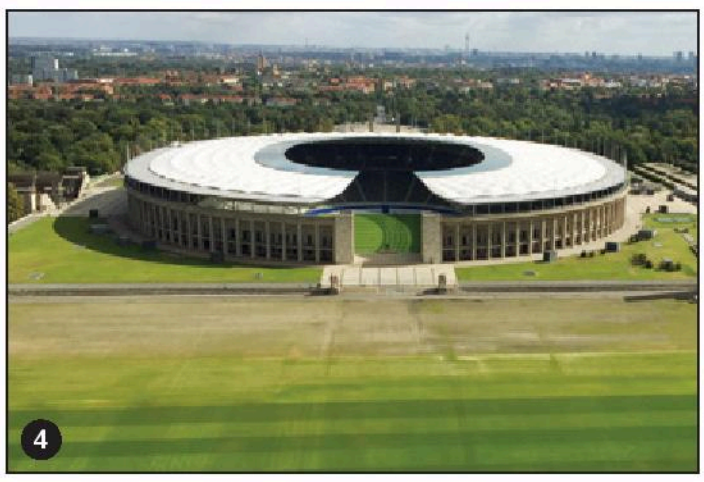
Looking at the words engraved at the entrance "Dem Deutschen Volke" I was reminded of our State's second Chief Minister Kengal Hanumanthaiah, the builder of Vidhana Soudha in Bengaluru. He, in his idealistic fantasy, had got engraved at the front entrance in Kannada, like at the Reichstag in Berlin, ಸರ್ಕಾರದ ಕೆಲಸ ದೇವರ ಕೆಲಸ [Government work is God's work]. The suggestion was that one should work in this Vidhana Soudha with the belief that it is God's work one is doing, so don't be corrupt, work honestly.

Poor Hanumanthaiah went overboard on his ethical mirage and wrote at the other entrance, ಧರ್ಮೋ ರಕ್ಷತಿ ರಕ್ಷಿತ: It means that those who protect the truth (righteousness), truth will protect them. Sadly, the Vidhana Soudha has become the "cesspool of corruption," to use Amitabh Bachchan's famous words about politics in India. And the Truth is no longer protecting us as we too are guilty of not protecting the truth.

Adolf Hitler on the VIP stand of the Olympic Stadium during the opening celebrations of the Olympic Games, 1st August 1936.



Rear of the Stadium where the entry is.



Front view of the Stadium.

Our next destination was the Olympic Stadium where the Olympic Games were held in August 1936 when Adolf Hitler was the Dictator-Chancellor. Tom says the whole programme was dominated by military ceremonies, including paying tribute to World War I martyrs at the memorial nearby, by Hitler. Being a past master in propaganda, he used the Olympic Games for the purpose though it smacked of racism. The US and Europe wanted to boycott but failed. It was a beautiful stadium (see pics. 2, 3, 4) which we saw from the Bell Tower of World War I Martyrs Memorial nearby.

Later Tom took us to a Russian Martyrs Memorial to commemorate the martyrdom of many Russian soldiers killed in their final assault on Berlin across the only Bridge that survived Hitler's scorched-earth policy in April 1945. We visited some other places like Churches and Museums and then it was time for lunch.

Tom was by now overbearing. "If you came to Berlin and not visited KaDeWe, you have not really seen Berlin," he declared and drove us to the massive mall KaDeWe. He wanted to buy stuff for our lunch and took us to a secluded place in a park, passing by a Beer Garden. Smart guy we thought.

We headed to the important tourist sight — "Fuhrer's Bunker." Sadly for the tourists this was detonated in December 1947 by Russians. Today all that we see is a notice board by the side of the road with description and details. Both the Chancellery and the Bunker where Hitler married his love and secretary Eva Braun and later committed suicide, were flattened and modern buildings have come up in the place with some open space.

From the signboard we learnt:

19th of March 1945:

From the Bunker Hitler issued the Nero order, the destruction of the very means of existence of the civilian population. With this pointless order, Hitler displayed his contempt for his supposed "Beloved Germany."

20th of March 1945:

In the garden of the Reichs Chancellery about 50 "men" assembled, a mixed bag of Hitler youth and members of the SS division "Frundsberg," who in their desperation had attacked approaching Soviet tanks. In the presence of cameramen and photographers from the Wochenschau News, who documented the "Fuhrer's last public appearance." Hitler awarded these men with the Iron Cross for their heroic deeds in the securing of the defence of Berlin. Afterwards Hitler descended the steps into the Bunker. Wrongly the event was dated for a long time as April 20th, 1945.

20th of April 1945:

Hitler "celebrated" his 56th birthday at the Bunker. For the annual reception, the most important National Socialist functionaries of the severely shrunken Reich gathered to congratulate their "Fuhrer."

30th of April 1945:

During afternoon, Hitler and his wife Eva (born Braun), who had married not long before in the bunker, committed suicide. Their bodies were then burned in the garden in front of the bunker entrance. The Goebbel's children died at the hand of their mother shortly afterwards. As the next day began, Joseph Goebbels (the propaganda Minister, recently named Chancellor) and his wife also killed themselves. With that, WW 2 in Europe, with its over 55 million dead, basically came to its end.

Hitler celebrated his 56th birthday on 20th April 1945 and committed suicide on 30th April 1945 along with his just married wife Eva Braun.

"People of the constituency have believed in me all these years and have voted for me. I am sure the same confidence will be reposed in me this time too," CM Siddharamaiah said.

Allottees pick lots

In all, there are 1,683 sites out of a total 2,270 sites that will be distributed to the allottees and all this come under survey numbers of Kergalli in western part of Mysuru. After the symbolic picking of lots by the CM, the process of distribution continued with the allottees picking up the number of his/her site through lottery. The process went on through the day.

There were two lottery picking drums — one for the 20x30 ft and 30x40 ft category and the other for 40X60 ft and 50X80 ft category. The luck factor plays a huge role when the lots are picked. With the Vaastu playing on the minds of the people, if an allottee gets a south or west facing site, then he will be disappointed, while a north or east facing site allottee will be delighted. The reason is the south and west-facing sites fetch a lower rate in the open market, while the north and east sites fetch a bonanza. Also, if the roads are facing the 80 ft road stretch then the value of the site increases than the ones facing the 30 feet road in the cross roads.

The allottees who had gathered in large numbers had come with Aadhaar cards. Once the site numbers are announced they will be given a Lease-cum-Sale agreement, which clearly states that they cannot sell the site for ten years. And one more condition is that the title deed will be given only if they construct houses.

Prominent Layout

R.T. Nagar is one of the most prominent layouts in the city as it is provided with all basic amenities like drinking water, electricity, roads. The elevation also adds beauty to the newly-formed R.T. Nagar. Chief Minister Siddharmaiah said that it was one of the most beautifully planned layouts.

Bank loans

Indian Bank had put up a counter and offering loans on the spot to the site allottees.

Distribute 5,000 sites by December: CM

Chief Minister Siddharamaiah, speaking after launching the distribution of sites, said that he had asked the MUDA to distribute another 5,000 sites by December end including those at Lalithadripura and other Layouts.

"The land-losers coming under the Chamundeshwari constituency from whom the land has been acquired do not have basic amenities. Hence, I have asked MUDA Chairman D. Dhruvakumar to provide them all basic facilities like water, electricity and roads in the Layouts that come under MUDA jurisdiction.

"If Dhruvakumar had not come as the Chairman of MUDA, then nothing would have moved till now. We have undertaken the distribution of sites in a very transparent manner," he said.

He also said that there were plans to construct group housing for the poor and the middle class. "Once the layouts are formed and all amenities provided, then it should be handed over to the Mysuru City Corporation (MCC)," said Siddharamaiah.

Nearly 47 land-losers were allotted 47 sites in the new layout on the day.

The CM also announced that 11 to 12 Indira Canteens will be opened in Mysuru on Jan. 1 in the first phase. On Nov. 15, the Universal Health Insurance scheme for APL and BPL card holders will be launched. Ten lakh post-natal mothers under the Mathrupoorna Scheme are being served bisi oota, he added.

KSOU will not be shut: Siddharamaiah

Mysuru, Oct. 16 (PM&VNS) - The State Government will not shut down Karnataka State Open University (KSOU), said Chief Minister Siddharamaiah here this morning.

Speaking to media persons in front of his Ramakrishnanagar residence here, he said that he had written a letter to Union HRD Minister Prakash Javadekar seeking his intervention in resolving the de-recognition issue.

Stating that granting re-recognition was left to the University Grants Commission (UGC), he said that UGC functioned under the Union Government and there was a need for the Centre to intervene in the KSOU's matter.

"I have also mentioned in the letter to take action against the former Vice-Chancellors responsible for the irregularities apart from apprising him about the problems it would cause to the teaching and non-teaching staff of the University," said CM Siddharamaiah.

When asked about a six-member committee headed by Additional Chief Secretary K. Rathna Prabha to look into various issues related to KSOU including diverting the University's funds for civil and other works of other Universities, colleges and diploma institutes across the State, the CM said that the committee was formed to prevent income tax problems which the VTU faced and had to cough up Rs. 450 crore as fine.

Appointment of VC to UoM

When media persons questioned about the delay in appointing a regular Vice-Chancellor to University of Mysore (UoM), Siddharamaiah said that a report with respect to the appointment of VC was submitted to Governor-Chancellor Vajubhai R. Vala, and the State Government was awaiting his reply.

Later, the CM received memorandums from people who had gathered in large numbers in front of his residence. City Police had provided security with SP Ravi D. Channannavar supervising the arrangements.

Amendments to Karnataka Private Medical Establishments Act

MAHAN delegation calls on CM, seeks removal of unscientific rules

Mysuru, Oct. 16 (KS) - A delegation of MAHAN, the Mysore Association of Hospitals, Nursing Homes, Diagnostic Centres and Clinic, called on Chief Minister Siddharamaiah at his residence in city this morning and submitted a memorandum urging him to remove unscientific rules imposed on private medical practitioners and hospitals.

Association office-bearers said that the State Government has brought in amendments to Karnataka Private Medical Establishments Act under which the Government will fix rates for various procedures in private hospitals and penalise those flouting it which amounts to imprisonment and The Karnataka Private Medical Establishments (Amendment) Bill, 2017, was also tabled in the Legislative Assembly.

The Bill mandates private hospitals to first hand over the dead body to a family and later collect the dues payable to it. It also prohibits private hospitals from demanding advance payments from patients or the family in case of emergency treatments.

Terming the Bill as unscientific, MAHAN has urged the CM to remove such unscientific rules as it would hamper in the functioning of private hospitals.

The CM, after receiving the memorandum, said that he has referred the issue to a Joint Review Committee and added that he would seek a report from the Committee before taking a call on it.

MAHAN President Dr. Mahesh Kumar, Secretary Dr. B.N. Rajeeva, Dr. Javeed Nayeem, IMA Mysuru Chapter President Dr. M.S. Vishweshwara and others were in the delegation.

Paving way for happy home

Comfort and convenience are key factors when planning a home or even a room placement, storage, furniture arrangements and layout. Integrating the art of Vaastu and Feng Shui in the design specific to your property and the occupants is a more advanced approach than to follow the general rules.

Feng Shui can be a design tool of Interior Design providing methods to change your surroundings, to create harmony and balance in your living and working environment. To ensure proper balance of Chi (energy), each home must contain the five elements of fire, earth, metal, water and wood, which can be added through such things as colours, fabrics, home accessories, lighting, cushions, mirrors and fountains. A balance of these in your home leads to balance in your life and enhance prosperity.

One of the most important sectors of your home is the "Prosperity sector" which can be identified on the basis of your building orientation, main door and living room direction. The first step toward prosperity is to get the stuck "Chi" (energy) within us and around us flowing again. The main cause of being stuck is clutter. Clutter includes piles, disorganisation, things you no longer need, use, or love, anything in disrepair, unfinished projects before you implement any Feng Shui corrections.

When Feng Shui principles based on accurate compass readings and a variety of specific calculations are applied, they can indeed activate opportunities for prosperity and help one achieve your personal and professional goals with less resistance and obstacles. In turn creating opportunities for wealth, relationship and overall harmony.

Feng Shui attributes several specific elements to financial prosperity and accumulation of wealth. Colours like red, purple and gold are heavily associated with wealth. As these colours are dramatic and deep, it should not be used in abundance. Instead, one could use them as creative accent pieces in the bedroom. In addition to red, purple and gold, the colour yellow is considered auspicious too. It is a stimulating colour that easily keeps your brain focused, while green is exceptionally calming.

Few of the simple home checks and corrections for paving way to achieve good prosperity are as listed below and in the context of oriental philosophy and Feng Shui they have a very important meaning too:

- Place Telephones at Northwest as it ensures good communication, networking and ushers in new prospects for business houses.
- Take away or repair stopped clocks as they are said to generate negative vibes and indicate symbolically being "stuck" with time and energy as energy is said to change with time.
- Do not suspend calendar and clocks on door (either back or front) as it is said to symbolically indicate bad times anticipated through the door and also announce symbolically that "time is running out."
- Periodically scrub floors with salt and water (mixture) to cleanse out negative energy and make way for new opportunities.
- Ensure that kitchen burners are not clogged as it indicates blockage of wealth flow as food is wealth and when the burner is clogged, it clogs wealth opportunities.

46 trees coming in the way of Railway project translocated

Mysuru, Oct. 16- In first-of-its-kind initiative, South Western Railway (SWR) zone, which has jurisdiction over Karnataka, Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, Maharashtra and Goa, has embarked upon a plan to translocate 46 trees, which otherwise would have been felled to make way for track doubling.

Devaragudda is a crossing station at about 369 km from Bengaluru in Bengaluru-Hubballi route. SWR is executing doubling works in Tumakuru-Arsikere (95 km) and Chikjajur-Hubballi (194 km) sections in this route. Devaragudda is a two line station in Mysuru Division and on account of doubling, this station is to be developed into four-line crossing station.

In the initiative that began early this week at Devaragudda in Ranebennur taluk of Haveri district where the track doubling work on Chikkjajur-Hubballi line is to be taken up, the translocation of 25 trees was completed by Friday (Oct. 13) evening.

The project is because of the initiative taken by Chief Engineer Manoj Tiwari who came up with the idea of translocating the trees instead of felling them. Subsequently, the Railways got a few experts from Hyderabad to carry out the work and among them one agency was hired to carry out the translocation as per standard procedure, Alokkan Padmanabhan, Executive Engineer of Construction Wing of SWR, said in a press release.

These 46 trees located adjacent to the Devaragudda railway station comprise a variety of species, including Nemalinare, Neem, Delbargia, Sisso, Pumgamia, Albizzia and Lebbeck, having girths in the range of 60 cm to 290 cm. Chief Engineer of Construction Alok Tiwari, Deputy Chief Engineer Sharfuddin, Junior Engineer Ramesh are involved in the supervision work.

Keeping in view the vision of Indian Railways, 'to promote green environment and green energy while making the Indian Railways a global leader in sustainable mass transports', it was decided to translocate the trees. This is a small beginning in SWR for saving the trees and protecting the environment, the release said.

Green Morning Horticulture Pvt. Ltd., which has been entrusted with the work, shifted 10 trees on the first day and five on the second. On Friday, workers have completed translocation of 10 trees and on Saturday, they have translocated 10 more, Padmanabhan said.

Of the 46 trees identified for translocation, 30 are fairly young while the rest are bigger trees measuring up to 15-20 meters. Since the translocation of bigger trees requires bigger crane and shifting of the utilities in the station yard, the work is likely to consume time and the plan is to complete the work by end of next week, Padmanabhan added.

The work was done under supervision of horticulture experts who have transplanted many trees in past at various places. The process involved uprooting the trees with surrounding soil after duly protecting the roots, shifting to new location using crane, transplantation to required depth and further providing manure and fertilisers, pesticides, etc. After completion of transplantation work, regular watering is to be done for 6 months and horticulture experts have to visit to see the growth of transplanted trees.
